BACK TO SCHOOL! (Lead Instead of Following!)

*In the weeks to come our youth will be entering the halls of academia once again. Not only will the doors of the school be opened, but doors that lead to future opportunity will also open. Praying parents and fellow saints are believing God to help our youth make the right choices. It is very easy for one to make a decision that will negatively affect the remainder of their life. Following the crowd or doing the cool thing is not always the right or best thing to do. Instead of being influenced to do wrong, influence others to do right. Lead your friends to Christ instead of allowing them to lead you away from Christ. Avoid activities which keep you from church. Refuse to be involved in worldliness. Daniel refused to eat the food from the king's table because it wasn't proper for a young Jew. God has His hand on our youth to do work for Him in the coming years. Don't mess up your life by being led away from God at an early age. Pray before school and ask God to help you be a witness for Him. Read His word and attend church services and Sunday school class to learn how to share Jesus Christ with others. Set goals in your life for this school year to win someone to Christ. Along with studying to make good grades, make this your best year yet for Christ!
